Last Reminiscence

Forth into the world go we, the graduates of nineteen-hundred and fifty-three, taking with us the memories of irretrievable time spent at Boyden High School.

Yet, with minds erudite, we shall not look back to that which must be forfeited or left behind, but rather we shall employ our knowledge gained here to some future goal.

After one last reminiscence with those who will soon take a road far apart from our own individual one, all shall depart as friends one of another.

Holding high all we have obtained—our wisdom, friendship, and frolicsome time together, our gratitude is extended to those who made these opportunities possible.

And so we close a portion of our lives to enter a greater one.

May it be said of the class of nineteen-hundred and fifty-three that this was always their creed, "Go Forward".

To you, my friend, I say, Act well your part

For the morrow comes to banish the opportunities today offered.

Give to all the skill inherently bestowed
upon you;

Let talent justify your place on earth;

Ploy your part, and remember that ambition
alone can breed success.

Only offer all this can you possess the full measure intended for you on earth.

Go then, my friend,

Act well your part, and the world is yours.
